Historical materialism is an integral part of Marxist philosophy, and the only scientific approach to interpreting and understanding history and the progress of human society over time. Its purpose is to study the structure of human society and the laws governing its development. With the creation of historical materialism social development came to be regarded by human thought as a natural historical process which, despite its complexity and diversity, was subjected to general laws. Thanks ...

The Historical Materialism conference is not a conventional academic conference but rather a space for discussion, debate and the launching of collective projects. We therefore discourage "cameo appearances" and encourage speakers to participate in the whole of the conference. We also strongly urge all participants to take out personal subscriptions to the journal. Organised in ...
